Jorns to senate: It's your investment too

By CHRIS SEPER
Associate news editor

Calling the current financial problems in higher education the worst he's ever seen, Eastern President David Jorns appealed to the Student Senate Wednesday to endorse a $60 increase in next year's student fees.

"You've got a big stake in this school, the school exists for you," Jorns told the senate Wednesday night. "It's an investment you're making in this institution."

The increase is part of reallocation recommendations from the Council on University Planning and Budget. The council plans to reallocate $1.6 million back into the university, possibly through a fee hike, consolidating Eastern's six colleges and absorbing vacant positions.

Of the $1.6 million, $1.1 million is to be used for faculty salaries. The remaining $500,000 would be used as compensation if the state has a budget callback, as it did about one year ago.

The $60 hike is $10 more than what the CUPB recommended. All of the original $50 increase the council requested would be used to maintain current systems in Health Service, Booth Library and computer maintenance.

Lou Hencken, acting vice president for student affairs, who also attended the meeting, moved for $10 increase to improve Health Service.

Hencken said the additional

Members propose hike in intramurals

By CHRIS SEPER
Associate news editor

A proposal to look into introducing an intramural activity fee for the Division of Recreational Sports was approved Wednesday as discussion of additional funding for the Student Recreation Center reached the Student Senate's regular meeting.

Senate member John Goveia cited the need for the Rec Center to generate money within itself as the reason he and fellow senate members Dan Fultz and Karie Rice created the proposal.

The senate tabled most of Apportionment Board's approved allocations in Wednesday's Student Senate meeting.

Appropriations were tabled to allow discussion among senate members concerning the AB recommendations.

Included in the proposal by the three senate members was a comparison with seven other Illinois schools' intramural activity fees. Five of the seven schools — Sangamon State, Chicago State, Southern, the University of Illinois and Northeastern — had intramural fees of $12 or more for every student.

"It's either (find way to get money to the Rec Center) or we lose our programs," Goveia said.

Only Western has an intramural program that is funded by its athletic department.

Committee should remain objective to find solutions

By DAVID M. PUTNEY
Administration editor

The Textbook Rental Review Committee needs to maintain an air of objectivity to come up with the best possible solution to the textbook issue, and comments in the press could compromise that, said one of the co-chairs of the committee.

"There was some concern expressed by the committee members that other members of the committee were going public and expressing their viewpoint and saying that other options are not open," said committee co-chairman Rich Wandling, about an article in Tuesday morning's issue of The Daily Eastern News.

In the article, Kara Restagno and Bobby Smith, student members on the Textbook Review Committee, said they felt the Faculty Senate members on the committee might push to eliminate the system despite what the students want. The students said they intend to hold the line on textbook rental.

Wandling expressed his concern about the article at the Faculty Senate meeting Tuesday afternoon. He said that the textbook rental review process may be on the verge of breaking down.

"I do not want any one option closed off from the beginning," he said, Wednesday. "My goal as a faculty co-chair is to keep all options open.

"If we start closing off options, we will go down the path of the past where it ended up in conflict. I would like to see the student and faculty avoid that."

A 1991 committee failed to come up with any recommendations after it experienced internal conflict.

The committee is working hard to remain unbiased, Restagno said.

"They didn't want to have personal opinions in the newspaper," Restagno said. "From now on we're just going to keep to the issues."

Smith said that coming out strongly in favor of preserving textbook rental might make it seem like he was inflexible on the issue when he was simply looking out for the needs of the students he represents.

"Going into the committee, I said 'I will do this in as unbiased manner as possible,'" Smith said. "I am enthusiastic that it will work."

He said others on the committee and in faculty senate have made public comments about textbook rental.

"There is an individual like (Faculty Senate Chairman) Ed Marlow who would like to see it burned down and Gary Aylesworth who wrote a letter (to the editor)," Smith said. "People have made public stands against it."

Booth Library will be closed on Friday and have its normal hours Saturday and Sunday. The hours for the library are Saturday from 9 a.m.-4:45 p.m. and Sunday from 1:30-11:45 p.m.

The Student Recreation Center will remain open over the weekend. The hours for Friday, Saturday and Sunday will remain the same.

This new student fee money is considered "local income money" or, as Jorns called it, "invisible money" — "invisible" because all of it stays on campus. Eastern has full control of this money, unlike the tuition money which is sent back to the Illinois Board of Higher Education for appropriations.

If the state saw an increase in Eastern's base budget, it could possibly reduce the university's share of state educational funds. Because the changes take place on campus with money the university already has, the state won't detect the reallocations, Jorns said.

Things that also go under this local income money are housing fees and textbook rental money.

Jorns also said he would have the new fee audited every year to guarantee it was going to the right place.

Senate member Dan Fultz asked if Jorns thought the school would receive money in the future for teachers' salaries. Fultz said he wondered how the university would "disguise" money to pay for new salaries if the state did not.

Jorns said, "Short of an economic turnaround, we're going to see this practice (of reallocation) continue."

Most senate members embraced the CUPB's recommendations, saying all the money requested would satisfy a definite need.

"There's no way we can be sure that next year we get money for our Health Service or get money to keep our library up or our computers or technology," said Amy Jobin, the senate's executive vice president. "I think (reallocation) is one way in which we don't have to worry if we are going to have enough money for these things."

Members

The measure to pursue the idea was approved unanimously by the senate, with members requesting that Goveia, Fultz and Rice look to customizing the fees for people who actually use intramural programs.

Also during the meeting, senate tabled both the $5,000 increase for the Rec Center and the $2,200 allocation for Student Government. It did allow the $3,490 allocated for a University Board speaker to be passed.

The money was passed to allow UB to begin advertising AIDS awareness speaker Suzi Landolphe, who will speak on Feb. 22. Assistant Director of Student Activities Eileen Sullivan spoke to senate members on behalf of the University Board-sponsored event.

Regarding the Rec Center allocation, AB member Mike Daniels said it was poor budget planning that caused Rec Center Director David Dutler to request the $23,585, of which $17,000 was to be used for student payroll.

Member Chad Turner's plea for the senate to consider more seriously the student-appointments to AB fell upon deaf ears as committee members for AB, UB and the Intercollegiate Athletic Board all passed with little discussion.

Paul Carey, a senior business management major and former AB member, said changing the selection of AB appointments was "unadvisable."

In other business:

•Executive Vice President Amy Jobin said in her weekly report the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union would receive a new Macintosh computer laboratory some time in the future. Jobin had no set date for the lab's opening.

Also in the report, Jobin said approximately 3 to 6 new meeting rooms would be opened for student organizations.

In a Dec. 1 letter from Gary Aylesworth, faculty committee co-chairman, he listed student and faculty reasons for respectively keeping and removing the Textbook Rental Service. He also said that diversity and not standardization is the key to success and that renting makes books disposable commodities and give an anti-intellectual view toward education.

Wandling said he doesn't disagree with Smith's protecting his constituents, but he doesn't want anyone on the committee to fire the opening shot in what might become a public squabble.

"We are to serve as a forum where ideas can be aired with an air of objectivity, even though students and faculty may have an axe to grind about textbook rental," Wandling said.

Aylesworth said he has always remained objective about the issue.

"The letter didn't say anything at all about an entrenched position," Aylesworth said. "I didn't advocate any particular textbook system. I said there are questions other than cost."

"There are academic issues. I was talking about issues, not systems," Aylesworth said.

Marlow said his comment about burning down textbook rental doesn't accurately reflect his view.

"I'm not unrealistic enough to think we will get rid of the whole damn thing," Marlow said. "I'm hoping that we will see some movement on the issue."

Wandling said comments by any faculty or student senate members will only polarize the two sides.

"At the Faculty Senate meeting (Tuesday), I expressed my displeasure with the Faculty Senate chair's inflammatory comment," He said. "If we have the faculty senate chair saying things like that, it is not a positive development."

Wandling said Aylesworth's letter to the editor in the The News was sent before the committee was set up. The issue is settled, and he has no concerns about Smith's or Aylesworth's objectivity, he said.

Aylesworth said the committee discussed the article with the students, and is now in "fairly good shape" after the public exchange.

"The (students') comments that came out in the paper were out of context and not 100 percent accurate," he said. "Last night they told us what their positions are. We are not going to use the kind of language that reflects entrenched positions."

Aylesworth said Textbook Rental is not a student versus faculty issue, but a chance to examine textbook needs and design a system that best fits those needs.

Wandling said the committee isn't going to split between students who are in favor of textbook rental, and faculty who are opposed to it, like past committees.

"I am happy with the spirit of cooperation on the committee," Wandling said.

Black History Month discussion focuses on cultural awareness

By CHRISTOPHER PRINCE
Staff writer

A Wednesday night panel discussion titled "Being Black in America" turned the focus of Black History Month toward cultural awareness.

Taylor Hall's Black History Committee, known for its wide range of programs during Black History Month, played host to the program in the Taylor Hall lobby.

Jeff Waldhoff, Taylor Hall residence assistant and director of Wednesday's program, expressed concern about how few white students attended.

"It makes me wonder about the priorities of some students," Waldhoff said. Although there were approximately 45 students in attendance, the panel didn't reach the type of audience he had intended.

"I would liked to have seen more Caucasian students there," he added.

But Waldhoff was satisfied with the people who came and hopes to see more attend future programs.

The panel consisted of seven members including Kevin Evans, Joe Flynn, Angela Grimes, Michele Robinson, Dwayne Smith, Juanita Wiley and Herman Taylor, chairman of the music department. All of the members offered a wide range of African-American backgrounds and points of view.

The questions given to the panel sparked many ideas leading to individual stories about growing up and dealing with being black in America.

"I would like to see these types of programs go into March and beyond," Waldhoff said.

He and other members of Taylor Hall's Black History Committee also said there are more programs throughout the month.

Correction

In the Wednesday edition of The Daily Eastern News, the date of the the Textbook Rental Service forum was incorrect. The date of the forum is Feb. 16.

In another story, Charleston mayoral candidate Dan Coughill was incorrectly identified as a former city plumbing inspector. It was actually his father, Oral Coughill, who held the position.

The News regrets the errors.

Intramural fee viable after fair AB grant

Most students will not be willing to admit it, but the Apportionment Board's $5,000 allocation to the Student Recreation Center was the right thing to do. The move set an important precedent for future Rec Center requests, as well as giving the center enough money to continue its necessary programs.

Student employee cuts began Wednesday, with more soon to follow, AB member Chad Turner said in the Tuesday meeting. But if the Rec Center is sincere about maintaining its pricey budget, it will look to add a small fee to the intramural programs.

Editorial

Although it was only one-fifth of the Rec Center's $23,585 request, AB's allocation will curb what has become an unquenchable thirst for funds by the center. The $5,000 was chosen due to the increase in spring activities, giving the Rec Center a buffer just in case activity would continue to increase.

The overall funding by the AB were intelligently made, only lowering the $124,861 emergency fund by $10,690. A consistent allocation in this range keeps the AB from diminishing its fund.

No one was a favorite of the board either, denying University Board's $9,143 request for Springfest. If AB was a scrooge, it was a scrooge to everyone, and not just the Rec Center.

What lies ahead for the Rec Center are a series of tough decisions. It had originally requested $17,000 of the $23,585 for student employment. Even if the money was used students will lose their jobs.

But will the center sacrifice workers for the sake of its huge intramural program? Using figures from the center's original request, a $2-$5 per person fee on the more than 2,000 students that use intramurals still would generate additional funds necessary to maintain a majority of the students employment.

Intramurals should be first in line to either be cut or charged by the Rec Center. The students employed there should be the last option.

The AB's allocation is a look to the future for Recreational Sports. The tightening of the belt had better begin now and continue for the next few years.

TODAY'S QUOTE

In a hierarchy, every employee tends to rise to his level of incompetence.

The Peter Principle

Exactly who do we think we are?

In November, I was watching an episode of the Arsenio Hall show. One of his guests was the mayor of Denver. The topic was a law voted on in Colorado on election day. The law was whether or not gays should have special rights. What it meant was that if the law passed, homosexuals could be discriminated against for jobs and housing. I do not understand how "America, land of the free" could even put that on a ballot.

I have been hearing so much controversy over homosexuals. The more I hear the more angry I get. I am not a homosexual, so I do not understand how it feels, and I have also never been discriminated against in the severity that homosexuals have been. In fact, I do not really know anyone who is a homosexual, so I do not understand why I feel so strongly about rights for homosexual.

I guess one reason is I do not understand why it is so wrong for people to love each other. I am a person who is very affectionate. I love to be touched, hugged and kissed. It is important for people to be loved and touched.

I read a study about babies in an orphanage. The babies were fed, diapered and clothed. However, they were not touched or loved. Most of these babies just turned to the wall and died. Why does any human being have to die unhappy and lonely?

So what if a man loves a man or a woman loves a woman. If they are happy, feel loved and feel good about themselves, what does it really matter.

People worry more about homosexual sex than love. If I remember correctly, most people have sex in the privacy of their own homes. This is also true for homosexuals. They do not have sex in front of you, so who cares what they do in privacy. A lot of people have sex because it makes them feel good that another person is attracted to them. Sex makes people feel beautiful, loved, powerful and close to another human being. This does not always hold true, but for a lot of people, especially if they are in love, it does.

Lisa M. Howard

cially if they are in love, it does.

Some people argue that the Bible says homosexuality is wrong. I am not a religious person, but as far as I know the Bible also teaches love and understanding. I do not see many people preaching about that. If they want to argue about the Bible and religion, the Judeo-Christian religion, as one example, views any sexual act that did not provide the possibility of conception as "sinful." This means that oral and anal sex is wrong for everyone, heterosexual or homosexual.

Now, how many people can fight for the religious point of view when there are many heterosexuals performing these sex acts also? In fact, there are 25 states that say it is illegal to have oral or anal sex whether you are heterosexual, homosexual, single or married. In Georgia and Rhode Island, there is a 20-year jail sentence, and in Tennessee it is 15 years. In Michigan, it is 15 years for anal sex and five years for oral sex. Some states and branches of the military also say what position you can have intercourse. Just how boring do they want everyone's sex lives to be? Sure, it is not likely they will find out what you're doing behind closed doors, but just having these laws are absurd.

People need to stop worrying about such petty issues and look at the bigger issues in this country. Homosexuals are not going to hurt us. Drug dealers, rapists, murderers, even tax evaders hurt our country, but a rapist would only get half of a sentence than a person charged under a sodomy law, and that is even if they are convicted. If people want to fight an issue, fight the people who are child molesters, rapists or involved in domestic violence. They are the sick ones. All a homosexual wants is to be able to love another human being, so why are we fighting them and ignoring the people who want to hurt us and our country? What is the worst thing homosexuals will do to our country? Make men wear pink? Make women shave their heads? I doubt it. Homosexuals do not try to change our sexual orientation, so why do we constantly try to change theirs?

Your turn...

Small-town mayor offers invitation

Dear editor,

I have a daughter attending EIU and read with interest and concern your article "Take Me Back to the Real Illinois." Here are some points for you to consider:

1. Why I am paying state taxes to Illinois all these years if I don't live in Illinois?
2. Crescent City is six miles east of Gilman, a rural farming community, remember this next time you sit down to eat your dinner. Think where this food is coming from.
3. Fact is downstate people are friendlier than Chicago people.
4. Can you leave your car keys in your car in Chicago?
5. Does your car have turn signals?? We don't, we know where we are going!
6. I challenge you to come and spend a couple days in Crescent City this summer. I'll show you how much nicer country life is. How about a can of "pop"?

Reader ponders columnist's choice of topics

Dear editor,

In regards to Cassie Simpson's recent article "Have you got a problem with me?" (February 9), I would like to voice my wholehearted backing of what she said: more people do need to start writing in to complain about her articles.

Although Miss Simpson does point out that some of her columns have been "hard-hitting" and "controversial," she failed to remind the readers about her columns on such "hard-core" issues as the idea that the greatest job in the world would be to read stories for those books on tapes or that obsessive boyfriends and girlfriends are walking free on this campus.

Another problem with Miss Simpson's article was that although she spoke of the few errors that are made in her articles she easily could have noticed the incorrect use of "right" in her column (second column, third full paragraph).

Finally, the question of motivation for her columns needs to be looked at. Her columns "aren't supposed to change the world, the university or even the way someone lives" but shouldn't they at least be about something of interest or importance? Want to address the problem of dorm overcrowding? Address it with substance, not personal stories about yourself. Want to entertain? Use humor, not cliched ideas or topics. If the readers of The Daily Eastern News want apathetic shallow columns they can read Andy Rooney.

While the rest of the world examines "Why Johnny can't read," the readers of The News need to ask: "with columns like Miss Simpson's why would he want to?"

Minorities offered aid by MAP

By TAMALA GANT
Staff writer

Eastern's Minority Admissions Program is designed to give minority students a chance to attend college and is a successful force in building cultural diversity on campus, said Mona Davenport, director of the program.

Johnetta Jones, director of Eastern's Minority Affairs Office, created the MAP, which is funded by state appropriations.

"I think the Minority Admissions Program has a lot of positive aspects," said Tanisha Moore, a freshman undeclared major.

"I am glad that I am in MAP because it gave me a chance to meet other minorities, and it helps to motivate me to keep up with my school work and maintain proper time management."

The MAP has approximately 62 students in the program this year — about the average number.

Students who are interested in the MAP usually apply in their senior year of high school.

From there, the admissions office takes over and notifies the Minority Affairs Office of applicants who qualify for the program.

"I feel the program is taking a positive direction because this year approximately 76 percent of the students have a 2.0 or better GPA," Davenport said.

"The only thing that might need to be improved with the program is that we would like to see more students admitted in the future," she added.

Rameke Wright, a freshman accounting major said, "The MAP program has inspired me to do a better in school and always have confidence in myself and to keep a positive attitude about the goals I accomplish."

Powell may choose to leave Joint Chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Colin Powell said Wednesday he will complete his term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff if asked by President Clinton, but would prefer to leave a bit early.

In a day of appearances on TV interview shows, Powell strongly disputed a New York Times report that his desire to retire early was reinforced by disagreements with Clinton over the new president's policies on homosexuals and budget cuts.

Powell, 55, is the nation's highest ranking military officer as well as the chief military adviser to the president. He has held the job since Oct. 1, 1989.

"I am not unhappy, I am not disappointed, I am not crosswise with the administration," he told CNN.

Powell said he had wanted to quit "a month or so" before his term as Joint Chiefs chairman ends on Sept. 30 "in order to get my family resettled." He said he had made his wish known privately before Clinton took office, and Powell's spokesman said it was reiterated to Les Aspin, the new defense secretary.

In a later CNN interview, when told that White House spokesmen had said Clinton wants him to serve out his full term, Powell indicated he would stay on the job if asked.

"I will stay for whatever period of term that the president wishes," Powell said. "I serve ultimately at his pleasure, and I haven't heard that (Clinton wants him to stay through September), but I'm delighted to hear that."

The law allows Powell, who has spent 35 years in the Army, to serve a third two-year term as head of the Joint Chiefs. But custom dictates that he leave after four, and Clinton has given no indication that he would renominate Powell.

Largely overlooked in the extraordinary flap over Powell's retirement plans was his statement Wednesday that he now believed the defense budget could be reduced even more than planned by the Bush administration without hurting U.S. security.

"We believe that we can make additional reductions now without doing damage to the force," Powell said on NBC's "Today."

"And President Clinton, in the number of conversations I've had with him, and Secretary Aspin have reaffirmed to me that they want to keep the quality of the force intact, but we have to do it at less cost."

Craft Depot doubles as union sewing shop

By ARINNE CURTIS
Staff writer

While most students have stopped by the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union for a quick meal or some cash, the union can also become a students one-stop sew shop.

The Craft Depot, which is located on the lower level of the union's west side, next to the bowling alley, has an in-house seamstress available for sewing on buttons, hemming pants or even fixing a broken zipper.

"If you have a zipper break, you can take it there and have it fixed," said Joan Gossett, director of the union. "Or if students prefer, they can rent time on the sewing machine and do it themselves."

For the handyman, the Depot has carpentry tools available for rental, Gossett said. Students can also bring in posters or hand-made cloth crafts to be matted.

The Depot offers workshops on a variety of crafts including stained glass, calligraphy, photo processing, pottery, tie-dyeing and weaving. Brochures listing workshops' times and fees are available.

Next to the Craft Depot is Union Graphics. There students may buy a variety of signs ranging from poster board to canvas banners. These signs can be designed by the purchaser, Gossett said.

Dianne Gunn, the coordinator of Union Graphics and the Craft Depot, is innovative and will design anything that interests students, Gossett said.

"If they have a new idea, she'll probably do it," Gossett said. "If it comes to art, I'm sure she'll bring out something."

On the Homefront

A tale of keeping the home fires burning for the fighting men and women in uniform across the globe

At least one Eastern student has been greatly affected by the fact that the American troops are still in Somalia.

The student is Amie Joyce, a junior home economics major.

Joyce's fiance, Lance Corp. Jon Cox, has been in Somalia since Dec. 14. Before leaving for Somalia, he was stationed in Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Joyce and Cox were engaged on Nov. 27, 1992. The two had been dating for five years before the engagement.

According to Joyce, he drove 36 hours to propose to Joyce even though he had to drive back the entire distance the following day.

The plan was for Cox to propose over this past Christmas break when Joyce was to visit him at his home. Those plans were changed, however, when he found out that he would be in Somalia over Christmas.

Cox will be home in March, which may alter yet another set of plans between the two – their plans for spending spring break together.

"It's not the waiting that I mind, it's the uncertainty of when he will return," Joyce said.

For herself, it has been very hard to concentrate on school or anything else in her life when her loved one is in a far off and dangerous place.

Her thoughts are even more difficult to handle now with the Valentine's Day holiday – the holiday that is supposed to be spent with the one you love – drawing near.

Joyce expressed her difficulty in being happy when the one she loves is in another country. She now plans on going home to Chillicothe over the weekend.

"It's easier to deal with the holidays by spending them with my family," she said.

Joyce and Cox have had no way of communicating since they can't phone each other. They can and do write each other, but mail takes approximately 20 days to travel from point to point.

Cox has still not received "care packages" sent by Joyce and Cox's family the week he left for Somalia.

"I live for CNN," Joyce said expressing her desires for news coverage.

Whenever there is any kind of news on the relief efforts, she researches the crowd for Cox's face. Every time a newspaper has an article relating to Somalia, she quickly skims through the article looking for names.

Two soldiers have died since the American troop movement. "As soon as I saw the headlines my stomach dropped," she said.

Her related experience was one of relief that Cox had not been one of the two men but she also was filled with a feeling of deep sorrow for the families of those killed.

Since Cox works in communications operations his chances of surviving the operation are better than those working in artillery or other highly hazardous occupations.

"I'm very proud of what he's doing over there," Joyce said of her husband-to-be, "but it's still frustrating."

They plan on marrying in about a year and a half. They want to wait until his discharge from service in June of 1994.

Bush secretaries award bonuses in final minutes

WASHINGTON (AP) At least five Bush Cabinet secretaries authorized tens of thousands of dollars in bonuses for senior employees in the closing months of their tenures.

Five minutes before Bill Clinton took the oath of office last month, outgoing Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan proposed cash bonuses for 12 senior career officials at the Interior Department.

Calling that timing "outrageous," Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt said Wednesday he will review the bonuses.

Former Labor Secretary Lynn Martin awarded eight bonuses totaling $22,000 for departing political appointees between Nov. 1 and Inauguration Day, and the Agriculture Department gave year-end bonuses of up to $12,500 to more than 50 senior employees, spokesmen said. Several senior employees at the Department of Housing and Urban Development also received bonuses, according to a department source who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The biggest Labor Department bonus, $4,000, went to Martin's chief of staff, John Schall.

The Washington Post reported Tuesday that in his last weeks in office, former Attorney General William P. Barr awarded a total of more than $108,000 in bonuses to 37 Justice Department employees.

They included members of his security detail, his secretary and two of his closest aides.

The practice of giving cash bonuses to government employees is legal, and Bush administration officials say it also has occurred under earlier presidencies.

The bonuses proposed by Lujan for the Interior Department officials totaled about $170,000, said congressional sources who spoke on condition of anonymity. They said five of the officials were supposed to receive about $20,000 each and the other seven were to get $10,000. The money has not yet been paid.

Lujan listed the officials' names in a signed memo dated Jan. 20 at 11:55 a.m. to Doug Brook, acting director of the federal Office of Personnel Management. In the memo, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press, Lujan told Brook that the 12 had been nominated for "presidential rank awards."

"We're going to review this," Babbitt said in an interview. He said he was not passing judgment on the merits of the proposed bonuses but that what was "so outrageous about it" was the date and time of the memo.

"That's not my idea of what good government is about," Babbitt said.

Nominations for such merit awards normally are made before the end of each year.

Interior Department spokesman Jay Ziegler said the proposed bonuses now are being reviewed by the Office of Personnel Management and will be sent to Babbitt for final approval.

Spokesmen for OPM declined comment.

"It's not an unusual thing... It's a meritorious service award," Lujan said in a telephone interview from Albuquerque, N.M.

On Inauguration Day, Lujan said, he actually was on a plane bound for New Mexico; his signature on the memo apparently was made by an autopen, a device used by officials for that purpose. As for the last-minute timing of the memo, Lujan said he did not know why it was sent that way.

Asked about the amounts of the proposed bonuses, Lujan said he did not recall them precisely.

Clinton considers troops to enforce Bosnian peace

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Clinton administration said Wednesday U.S. troops could be sent to enforce peace in the former Yugoslavia if warring factions can negotiate a settlement.

"Our conscience revolts" at unending accounts of murder and rape, Secretary of State Warren M. Christopher said.

Unveiling a six-point peace plan after three weeks of study by the new administration, Christopher said, "No great power can dismiss the likely consequences of letting a Balkans conflict rage."

The deepening war, its threat to neighboring nations and the long-seated religious and cultural hatred now aflame in the area pose a critical test for the new president, who will also have to marshal world opinion behind his position.

"We inherit at this early point in our administration a tragic and dangerous situation," Christopher said.

He denounced Serbian "ethnic cleansing" aimed at Muslims in Bosnia-Herzegovina and called the crisis "an important moment for our post-Cold War role in Europe and the world."

President Clinton said earlier in the day that the American public will support the plan. "I think they want us to do more, but they want us to do it in a prudent way."

The secretary of state announced the possibility of using American troops as part of an international force to enforce peace terms if they can be reached.

"We are prepared to use our military power to enforce the agreement," Christopher said at a news conference.

At this stage, he said, "it is premature to try to analyze exactly what kind of military power is necessary."

Other senior U.S. officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said there was no decision yet on whether ground troops would act as peacekeepers.

But Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., a senior member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said Christopher called him and said that as many as 5,000 to 10,000 American troops could join a 40,000-member NATO force that might go to Bosnia under U.N. auspices once a new peace accord is concluded.

Other key provisions of the administration plan include the appointment of Reginald Bartholomew, the U.S. ambassador to NATO, to assist international mediators forge agreement, and a pledge to tighten the U.N. trade embargo against Serbia and Montenegro.

Christopher, at a news conference, denounced the Serbs, accusing them of a wide range of atrocities in Bosnia-Herzegovina, but he said President Clinton had ruled out providing the Muslims with U.S. weapons or using U.S. air power to silence Serbian mortar fire.

He said those options were weighed during the three-week review conducted by the new administration but were discarded out of concern that British, French and Canadian peacekeepers in the stricken country might be "gravely endangered."

SPRING 1993 COMMENCEMENT

Spring 1993 Commencement ceremonies will be held at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Saturday, May 15, in the Union/Library Quadrangle and all guests are welcome. In case of anticipated rain or extreme heat, both ceremonies will be held in Lantz Gymnasium and each marching graduate will be allotted five (5) "rain tickets". (See separate notice for ticket rules) Rehearsals will be at 1 p.m. for morning graduates and at 3 p.m. for afternoon graduates on Friday, May 14, in Lantz Fieldhouse.

An informational "Commencement Guide" along with cap/gown ordering instructions will be sent to graduation candidates at their permanent addresses to arrive during Spring Break. The deadline for mail order of caps and gown will be on April 16.

All faculty are urged to participate in the ceremony. Those needing to rent regalia should contact the Commencement

Office by noon, April 16.

The Commencement Office is on the second floor of Linder/Alumni House (1544 Fourth Street, 581-6892).

Brenda Cuppy
Commencement Coordinator

RAIN TICKETS FOR SPRING COMMENCEMENT

For safety reasons, the crowd in Lantz Gymnasium must be limited by issuance of "rain tickets" for guests of graduates, only if the two Spring 1993 Commencement ceremonies on Saturday, May 15, must be held inside. Also, a limited number of indoor guest tickets for faculty and staff will be available at the Commencement Office beginning April 28 (Linder House, 581-6892).

Each marching graduate will be allowed a maximum of five (5) guest rain tickets only by their request. Only a graduating student who appears on the cap/gown ordering list may claim tickets, or a friend in possession of the grad's Collegiate "Customer Copy" rental form. Following are the methods of requesting the tickets after student has ordered regalia:

1. Mailing to off-campus students after April 28 via a stamped, self-addressed envelope provided by the student to Commencement Office.
- or 2. Mailing to on-campus students after April 28 via a self-addressed campus envelope provided by the student to Commencement

Office. or 3. Picking up when picks up regalia rehearsal; or at Commencement after April 28.

Any extra tickets will be purchased on a first-come, first-served basis in the Lantz Fieldhouse from 8 to 9 a.m. to 12 to 1 p.m. on ceremony day. Turn in unneeded tickets at door, at robe handouts rehearsal, so that others can use them; or grads may give unneeded number of tickets to graduating students who need them.

In case of outdoor ceremonies, unlimited number of guests are welcome without tickets. However, seating is limited. Guests might want to bring own lawn chairs. Elderly guests should be warned that the area is in full sun.

Star winger wants remain in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Although the Blues may be on the trading block, right wing Brett Hull, 28, doesn't want to leave. "I'm not going anywhere," Hull said. "I'm not going to bail out on the fans of St. Louis. It's going to be an absolute disaster if I have to go here." In the not-too-distant future, the notion of trading Hull would have been unthinkable.

Hull led the NHL in goals the last season, including 86, the highest in league history. That's also the year he won the MVP. He's one of only three players in league history to win the MVP in three consecutive seasons. Although he has an off-year for goals, Hull scored 37 in 56 games, and again he was the leading scorer for the All-Star game.

Hull is one of the big reasons why the team is getting a new arena in 1994. When ground was broken at the Kiel Center, it was Hull who got the ball started by blasting a shot into a huge net draped over the goal. He's had cheeseburgers after him, and the telethon for the Blues' season ends with his number.

The team is considering trading Hull because he wants to be on a par with stars of his generation. This year will be the final year of a four-year deal worth $7 million, and he's seeking a five-year package worth between $3.5 million-$5 million a year.

Hull, 28, will make $2.2 million in his option year, so there's concern he may have priced himself out of the St. Louis market.

Rumors of an impending trade were rampant at the St. Louis Arena before Tuesday's game against Boston.

It's rumored the Blues have talked to the Los Angeles Kings, among others, about Hull. But the team's front office isn't talking much about it.

Blues President Jack Quinn said the team was negotiating with Hull's agent, Mike Barnett, but added there was no hurry.

"There's no real urgency because we do have 18 months to try to work this out," Quinn said.

Hull's best friend and former linemate, the Bruins' Adam Oates, was traded a year ago after a protracted contract squabble. Oates had nothing but harsh words for how the Blues seemed to be handling the Hull situation.

"I think it's sickening because I don't think the fans know the whole story," Oates said. "The guy's given his heart to the organization, he's turned the city on its ear, and now it's turned against him."

"But all I read in the paper is him saying, 'I want to stay.'" Besides money, another reason for dealing Hull could be production.

This season, although he leads the league in shots, he's tied for seventh in goals.

He's also appeared moody and disinterested at times without Oates alongside.

Still, his assists are way up and with 74 points he's on target for a fourth straight 100-point season.

Oates said Hull was "not playing bad at all" but could be better if he were teamed with different players.

"I look out and see he's playing with Igor Korolev and I don't think that's necessarily the best guy for him to play with," Oates said.

He also blamed the Blues' struggles this season on the Hull situation. The Blues are battling just to make the playoffs, tied for fourth in the Norris Division with Toronto.

"It's killing the team," Oates said. "It's got to affect the hockey team because they're all wondering what's going on. I think something should happen, one way or another. If they don't have the money, move him."

Hull said he was trying to be realistic in his demands. He doesn't want anything close to the $42 million, six-year deal that Mario Lemieux signed with Pittsburgh last fall.

"I don't think I'd ever compare myself with Mario Lemieux," Hull said. "I'm not that high, to tell you the truth, from reality. I know it can be worked out."

Bulls sign forward to replace Paxson

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bulls signed forward Ricky Blanton to a 10-day contract Wednesday to fill the roster place of John Paxson, who was placed on the injured list due to a sore left knee.

played in five games and averaged 4.5 points and 1 rebound before he was waived on Oct. 27.

Blanton began the 1992-93 season with the Wichita Falls Texans of the Continental Basketball

Paxson underwent successful arthroscopic surgery on the knee on Feb. 2, and has missed the past five games. He is expected to miss the entire month of February.

The 6-foot-7 Blanton was in the Bulls' 1992 training camp. He Association, and was traded to the Sioux Falls Skyforce on Jan. 15.

In 30 CBA games this year, he has averaged 13.3 points per game and 3.9 rebounds per game. He has shot 51 percent from the field.

Starting over Wannstedt names new coaching staff

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Bears head coach Dave Wannstedt completed his coaching staff Wednesday by naming Mike Shula as tight ends coach.

Shula, 28, has spent the last two years as an assistant to his father, Don, at the Miami Dolphins. He also has assisted Dolphins director of player personnel Tom Heckert in pro scouting.

The younger Shula joined Miami after spending three years working for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, first as an offensive assistant and then working with quarterbacks.

Shula was an all-Southeastern Conference quarterback at Alabama, leading the Crimson Tide to two bowl wins and becoming just the second player in school history to pass for more than 2,000 yards.

He had 2,009 yards in 1985.

He is the third member of his family to coach in the NFL. His father has been a head coach for 23 years and his brother, David, just completed his rookie season in charge of the Cincinnati Bengals.

The coaching staff assembled by Wannstedt consists of: offensive coordinator Ron Turner, formerly of San Jose State; offensive line coach Tony Wise from the Dallas Cowboys; running backs coach Joe Pendry from the Kansas City Chiefs; Ivan Fears from the New England Patriots, wide receivers; defensive coordinator Bob Slowik from the Dallas Cowboys; defensive line coach Clarence Brooks from the University of Arizona; defensive assistant Carlos Mainord from Texas Tech; and Shula.

In addition, Wannstedt has retained two coaches from the staff of his predecessor, Mike Ditka. They are linebacker coach Dave McGinnis and special teams coach Danny Abramowicz.

Three Panthers to miss home meet for another competition

By DAN HARRIS

Three groups of Panther track athletes will be in action this weekend. The meet is quite large and one is invitational. The majority of the team will be competing at home on Saturday in the invitational, but three athletes will also be flying to Nebraska to compete in the Pepsi Invitational. The select group includes Obadiah Cooper, hurdler, Sledge, and distance man Touchette. The three have had very successful seasons so far, with each having lost one race in their respective events. Cooper will be competing in the 100 and 200-meter dashes. He has already made the provisionally set NCAA qualifying time in the 100-meter dash. This month, his best time in the event (6.26 seconds) was among the nation's top 10. But he has since improved to 6.24. If the list has not changed, his newest recording ties for seventh.

Scott Touchette

Until last weekend, Sledge was undefeated in the 55-meter high hurdles. His goal this weekend will be making the NCAA standard of 7.38. His best this season stands at 7.49. Touchette will be running in the fast heat of the 3,000 meters. He is fresh off a powerful 5,000 win at the Indiana Invitational last week, and will also be looking for national time on Saturday. "That's our goal every time out," said head coach Neil Moore. "This meet should act as a stimulus for national qualifying performances." The Pepsi Invitational will be the last indoor competition for most of Eastern's track men, as the rest of team's indoor meets this year are on the road. "We have two big meets coming up," said assistant coach John McInerney. "Not everyone will be able to go, so for most of our guys this will be the last meet." The feature Panther entrant at Pepsi is senior thrower Brent Miller. He was supposed to make the trip to Nebraska, but he and coach Moore decided that it would be better for him to throw the 35-pound weight and the shot put on his home turf. Miller has already thrown past the provisional NCAA qualifying distance this season in the weight, and will be looking to improve on his competitive best of 62-feet 7 1/4-inches, which currently ranks him 12th nationally. Competition starts at noon with the 35-pound weight throw in Lantz Field House.

Title unification still a dream

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't hold your breath for Lennox Lewis and Riddick Bowe to fight for the heavyweight championship. It's not going to happen for a while. Lawyers and representatives of the fighters met for two hours Tuesday night and promoter Dan Duva said all the talk boiled down to perhaps 20 minutes of substance. "No agreement was reached," he said. "None was close." What the meeting did produce was a price for the fight of $10 million guaranteed. What it did not produce was any consensus for dividing that kitty. Among the proposals discussed was a suggestion that the winner take all. "Lennox Lewis would fight Riddick Bowe for $10 million, if he loses," Duva said Wednesday, "if Riddick fights for free, if he loses." The problem with winner take all fights are more rhetoric than reality. Also discussed was a more realistic $10 million split. The problem with that one was the name of the proposed payee on the check. Rock Newman, Lewis's manager, offered $10 million to Main Events, Duva's promotion company, for a Lewis fight. After deductions, that would leave Lewis with a purse of between $4 and $5 million, according to Duva. Frank Maloney, who manages Lewis, said the $10 million figure is fine, provided Lewis gets all of it. That, then, is where the divided heavyweight championship is now with the two camps separated literally and geographically. Lewis, the WBC champ, and Maloney were headed back to London

Wednesday night. Bowe, the WBA and IBF champ, and Newman were flying to Los Angeles for an appearance on the television show Fresh Prince of Bel-Air. "Our position is this," Maloney said. "Lennox Lewis would like to fight Riddick Bowe because that's the fight all the fans want. He will not chase Riddick Bowe and he will not be used by Riddick Bowe." "We have two offers for Riddick Bowe. Lennox Lewis will accept $10 million guaranteed, no strings attached, all belts on the line. Or, Lennox will accept winner take all, all the money and all the belts on the line in a $32 million fight. "Either scenario is acceptable at a date and time to be agreed on. If Rock Newman and Riddick Bowe are sincere, there should be no problem accepting either offer." Originally, the winner take all deal was suggested as a $31-$1 million split, so that the loser doesn't leave with entirely empty pockets. Newman reportedly raised the ante to the full $32 million during the Tuesday night meeting. Milt Chwasky, Bowe's attorney, said "In my opinion, winner take all is not realistic." Duva said, "I agree." That would seem to take care of that idea. "The lawyers and promoters notwithstanding, the fighters want the fight," Chwasky said. "I don't know when, but eventually the fight will be made." For his part, Lewis began by saying, "We want to show we're very serious." At that point, someone dressed as a talking chicken and wearing a sign that said "Bowe," showed up. Typically serious for boxing.

Eastern looks to end six-game skid

By RYAN GIUSTI
Associate sports editor

The women's basketball team will start a three-game conference road swing Thursday night when it travels to the Cleveland State Convocation Center to take on the Lady Vikings.

Eastern has lost its last six games on the road and last four overall. The Lady Panthers will take 2-16 overall record and 1-8 Mid-Continent Conference mark into Cleveland. Cleveland State is just ahead of the Lady Panthers in the conference standings, carrying a 2-7 Mid-Con record and a 3-16 overall record.

"We have every ability to be in this game and win it," Eastern coach Barbara Hilke said.

In the teams' first meeting on

Jan. 7 in Lantz Gym, Cleveland State overpowered Eastern 81-61. But the Lady Vikings have lost seven games in a row and are battling with Eastern and Western Illinois for the final playoff spot in the Mid-Continent Conference.

"They've been up and down this season," Hilke said of Cleveland State which has not yet won at home.

The Lady Vikings play at home in the Cleveland State Convocation Center. The 2-year-old Convocation Center cost $55 million to build and has a seating capacity of 13,610. Despite the impressive surroundings, Hilke said it will not distract her young team.

"It will be a little bit different, but we're getting there early enough to take a good look at it," Hilke said.

In the previous meeting, three Lady Panthers scored in double figures. They were led by senior co-captain Sheriel Brown who registered a double-double, scoring 21 points and grabbing 13 rebounds. She enters Thursday's game as one of the league's leading scorers and is fourth in the Mid-Con in rebounding. Brown is averaging 15 points and 9.2 rebounds per game.

Sophomore guard Nicky Polka and red-shirt freshman Sharon Pozin both added points in their last game against the Lady Vikings. Pozin grabbed a career-high 14 rebounds.

Senior guard and co-captain Karen McCaa will get her eighth start of the season. She came off of an ankle injury Sunday against Wright State, scoring a season-high 14 points. Eastern will stay in Cleveland the weekend, traveling to Youngstown State for Saturday game with the Penguins.

Youngstown is currently fourth in the Mid-Con with a 3 record and carries an overall mark.

Panthers welcome Mid-Con's leader

By DON O'BRIEN
Staff writer

Cleveland State's perfect start in Mid-Continent Conference play doesn't surprise Eastern head coach Rick Samuels.

"I think that I had (Cleveland State) at the top (in the preseason poll)," said Samuels, whose Panthers host the Vikings at 7:35 p.m. Saturday in Lantz Gym.

"There were two reasons why I chose them to finish first," he said. "First, getting (senior point guard) Gravelle Craig back for another season really enhanced their chances. Second, I knew that their early schedule when they played five straight (conference) home games in a row would help them get off to a good start."

Saturday's conference matchup will feature two teams on opposite sides of the spectrum. Cleveland State is 9-0 in Mid-Con play, 14-4 overall and have won its last 10 games in a row. Eastern has lost its last five games in a row and is 3-7 in the Mid-Con and 6-14 overall.

In the first meeting between the two teams, Cleveland State edged the Panthers 74-66 in overtime at Cleveland in the conference opener. Samuels said that the Panthers missed some opportunities down the stretch of that game.

"We missed four free throws in a row in the last few minutes of the game," he said. "We had some chances to win the game, but were unable to come through."

The Vikings, who have a three-game lead over second-place Northern Illinois, have three starters averaging in double figures. Sam Mitchell, who killed the Panthers in overtime of the last meeting and scored a game-high 27, is scoring 18.2 points per game. Anthony Reed, the Mid-Continent's player of the week last week, is averaging 14.4 and Craig, a speedy point guard, is averaging 14.3.

Other starters for Cleveland State include 7-foot center Shawn

"I think that they are more confident as a whole that they were the opener," Samuels said. "They were just working Mitchell in their game then and they had probably defined their roles better by now."

Samuels said that Eastern may go with a bigger lineup against Cleveland State.

"We might go with Curt Leib (Leib) at center and Darin Young (Young) and Andre (Rodriguez) forwards," he said. "The guards (Derrick Landrus and John Hernandez) will stay the same. Troy (Collier) is playing well right now, but I like having him come off the bench."

Samuels said that if the Panthers want to have a chance of pulling off the upset Saturday they must slow the Cleveland State transition game and execute offensively for longer periods of time.

The pressure's on Eastern wrestler Rich Murry applies the pressure to Valparaiso's Bryan Walker during the Panthers 28-15 win over the Crusaders on Feb. 3. The Panthers return to action Friday afternoon in Lantz Gym, hosting the Moccasins on Tennessee-Chattanooga at 3 p.m.. Eastern is undefeated at home this season, but must square off against several nationally ranked Moccasin opponents in trying to keep the streak alive. The Panthers will wrestle its final regular season meet Feb. 18 at home against Illinois State before gearing up for the NCAA West Regional, which will be held March 6 in Lantz Gymnasium.
